World Class Photographer Brings Training Programs to Southbury

May 24, 2010
By Press Release

SOUTHURY, CT — May 21, 2010 — The renowned photographer Claudio Basso is bringing his acclaimed photography training programs to his new hometown of Southbury. His training company Renovance is launching a series of courses on Hybrid Lighting starting on July 24 & 25 followed by two more dates in August and September. With a following of more than 50,000 photographers across the country these events are bound to continue prior outstanding successes, bringing good business to the area and offering local photographers the opportunity to access top level training.

Claudio has had a spectacular career publishing his fashion work across four continents and is well known in the industry for his photography training courses that he held in NYC. The programs have been attended by photographers coming from all corners of the country and by some warriors that flew all the way from China, Japan, South Africa, New Zealand and Europe. Based on a revolutionary format called Reality Training™ Claudio's training is a hand on with great attention to practical techniques to be used with clients. Renovance is the company producing the courses based on the motto "The difference between education and training is the real world". It is this element of practicality that has helped photographers jump start their career or move to higher level of business. Many who have experienced Claudio's methods have come back for more, several times.

So why the move from NYC to Southbury? "A series of events pulled me here about a month ago – says Claudio – and since then I have decided to make Southbury the center of my activities taking advantage of the many positive things it has to offer, starting from the luxurious natural environments. If we bring the same caliber of traffic we had in New York there will be benefits for many local businesses and I will do my part to put Southbury on the map of the photography world. We are only one hour from NYC and that affords us to bring up all the top quality personnel, like models, that characterize the high production standard of our programs".

Collaborating with the Heritage Hotel of Southbury, Claudio is planning to extend his courses into the winter by taking advantage of their meeting facilities which he describes as top notch. He is also negotiating collaboration with the Adam Broderick salon to provide hair and makeup services for the shoots.

Business aside, this move brings an excellent opportunity for the local photographers, who now will have the opportunity to access top level training and high end shoots for their portfolio right in their backyard, at affordable prices.

About Claudio Basso (www.claudiobasso.com)

Born in Paris in 1959, Claudio Basso has had an impressive volume of work published across four continents. His professional career started in Milan mentored by Alberto Nodolini, the renowned Art Director of Italian Vogue. From Milan to London, Paris and New York Claudio created editorial and covers for prestigious magazines such as American Vogue, New York Woman, French Elle, Italian Vogue, Vanity, Bazaar, Amica and Grazia. The elegance of his work also contributed to such prominent catalogues as Saks Fifth Avenue, Bloomingdales, Bonwitt Teller and the German Otto Versand. While recognized in Japan for the Max Factor cosmetic campaign and in Greece and Brazil for his stunning Elle covers, Claudio never abandoned his most intimate work of Private Portraiture shown in galleries around the world. Enriched by thirty something years behind the camera, a list of celebrities and supermodels photographed with a unique style that combines sensuality, elegance and sophisticated photography, Claudio Basso works from his studio in Southbury, Connecticut. He specializes in Private, Corporate and Artist portraiture and his art work can be seen in local galleries.
